October 2033, a terrible storm hit Grafton. It destroyed almost everything and made every citizen move to a safer place. Nobody came back. 30 years later a group of travelers found Grafton still abandoned.

May, 2063, Kate and a group. Of travelers started looking for artifacts and clues about what happened to this place and what it was. The group split up in search, Kate, the leader of the group found a building that looked like a church. She explored every room until she found a random door in the basement of the building. When she opened it a portal opened.

Kate was cautious she didn’t know what to do. But Kate bravely walked through. It took her to the past of Grafton.

When she walked out of the building she learned that the building was the Mothers Day Shine. While she was there she learned the truth, the history, and the culture of Grafton.
While stunned in amazement. She ran into someone.

“Oops, I’m sorry I wasn’t paying any attention to where I was going.” Kate said. “Oh, it’s alright I wasn’t looking either. My name is Maddison what’s yours.” Maddison replied. “Will you walk with me?” Maddison asked. “Sure.” Kate replied. The two new friends walked. They told their stories. Maddison told Kate all about Grafton. “So Grafton is full of history Mothers Day was made here by Anna Jarvis there is even a school made after her. Tygart Lake state park is an amazing park to visit... wait what is that noise? Look a storm! Everybody Get Inside Quick!”
Kate ran to the Mothers Day Shrine to get to the portal but lightning hit the building. Luckily, Maddison pushed her out of the way. "GO!" Maddison yelled.

Kate made it to the portal just in time she made it home and told everyone about the history of Grafton. Kate became a historian and lived happily ever after.