

Cupid's Call

Giuliano was sitting at the bus stop waiting to go to work. Suddenly, he noticed a girl named Cora, across the street. She was wearing a light blue shawl and jeans. Giuliano immediately recognized her from first grade, and it took him back 17 years ago when he sat across from Cora at the coloring station.

He remembered Cora asked the teacher to open the window. She said, "I need some fresh air." It's like Cora knew that Giuliano was staring right at her. The wind from the cracked window blew her brown wavy hair like ocean waves. When Cora was done with her drawing it looked like scribbles but to Giuliano it looked like a heart.

When Giuliano was done with the flashback, the bus was leaving. Giuliano chased after the bus banging on the back yelling. "Wait!" Cora was watching.

When the bus came to a halt Giuliano ran into the back of the bus and fell in the middle of the road as flat as a pancake. Cora ran across the road to see if he was okay. "Giuliano!" "Giuliano!" "DON'T FALL TOWARDS THE LIGHT!" Then Giuliano looked up to see Cora.

When their eyes met, something spectacular happened. Giuliano thought that it was a miracle. Cora was flustered and said, "I must go! Goodbye my love, I mean person um I mean Giuliano!" she said running away while blushing.

Giuliano couldn't help but giggle about her stuttering. But then the furious bus driver yelled. "Hey, are you getting on or no?" "Sorry Sir." said Giuliano while getting on the bus.

All day at work he was thinking about what happened earlier that morning. But, soon it was lunchtime and his friends invited him to lunch.

When the boys got to the restaurant, there was Cora! Giuliano froze. "What am I going to do Cora's there and I'm probably going to embarrass myself."

Far away on Valentine Island. Someone named Cupid was told by his love angels, "Code red!" Code red!" "Cupid's call." I'm going to push the button in 3,2,1. Go get that baby!" Cupid got out of bed and grabbed his bow and arrows and was on his way to Giuliano's beckon call.

Cupid appeared in front of Giuliano. "Hello mate, how are you today?" "Who in the world are you? Giuliano asked. "Correction who in the valentine world am I?" Cupid replied. "Still, who are you?" asked Giuliano. "Have your parents ever told you a story on valentine's day about a half-dressed little boy wearing a diaper with a bow and arrow?" Cupid asked. "Well, yeah, what was his name ... Cupid?" asked Giuliano. "Yeah, well that's me! I'm here for your help'.

Cupid shot Giuliano with a love arrow in the arm and said " make me proud!" Suddenly, cupid disappeared into thin air. "Make me proud. What does that mean?" Giuliano thought. Then he walked back into the restaurant while pulling the arrow out of his arm.

The first thing that was on his mind was Cora. Lucky for him he saw an open seat next to her. "Hi Cora" he said. "Hello Giuliano" she said back. "I heard that you got a new studio to put your own music on Diamond radio. " Yeah, I mean, ah, what about it?" he said in a manly voice. Cora giggled and said, "You're quite funny!" "I guess I just take after my dad" said Giuliano. "Oh, was he quite the character like you?" she asked.

"He was a comedian' Giuliano said. "He became good at his jokes and decided it was good enough for more people to hear. He made himself noticeable and got an offer from a guy to go to parties, and more hang out places. My dad of course took the opportunity and did it for about 5 years. But on his way to one of the parties he got in a terrible car accident and passed away. So, I moved here to New York and got my own apartment." "That must have been awful!" Cora said " If I went through that with my dad, I probably would have been on my bed sobbing still!"

It was terrible, but I put on my big boy pants, and followed my father's footsteps. But instead of telling jokes I play music and became famous myself," Giuliano said. He then asked if Cora would like to have coffee before work. Cora of course said yes, and Giuliano said, "Great! It's a date!" And they both resumed their day.

In Giuliano's office Cupid appeared in front of him and gave him a startle. "Now!" said Cupid in an annoying voice, "Was that so hard?" "No! Not hard at all!" Giuliano replied. "But now I'm stuck here trying to think of a song that's due tomorrow to put on diamond radio!"

"How about a song about Cora?" Cupid said while disappearing once again in thin air. Giuliano thought it was an astonishing idea and did as Cupid suggested.

He worked on it all day and on the bus ride home. But finally, after a hard day's work it was finished, and he was indeed proud of himself.

The next day Cora turned on the radio and heard the song that Giuliano made on diamond radio. She started crying happy tears.

Cora was so eager to talk to Giuliano about the song she went to visit Giuliano at his office. He was with his band singing the song on the radio. Called be with me C. C stands for Cora.

Cora and Giuliano stayed with each other for a long time and got to know each other better as the years passed by. They went on a trip to Hawaii and Giuliano proposed there. Shortly after, they were married. 'Be with me C' was their wedding song. They soon also had their first child named Daisy and knew Cupid would help her with her love match and her first child and so on.