So here are my WAMC predictions:

Three WAMC staff members will have babies in 2022. They will all be named for their fathers or mothers, as sex would dictate.

WAMC will be nominated for six important awards. News Director Ian Pickus will be designated to go to pick up the honors. One of the winning stories will explore wrong-doing in the state legislature.

Shelly Silver will be released from prison. He will be invited to talk about his experience in prison and will unexpectedly accept the invitation.

WAMC’s Linda Norris auditorium will present a national act that would usually appear at Tanglewood or SPAC.

A WAMC staff member will contract COVID and survive.

Ray Graf will win a humanitarian of the year award. The citation will read, “To the most even tempered, nice guy on the WAMC staff.” Someone in his family will receive a high scholastic honor. Not only that, he will receive the WAMC Father of the Year Award.

Selma Kaplan will write a book about her time at WAMC. She will talk about how she had to decide whether to pursue a musical career with the Rude Girls or work full time at the station.

Ian Pickus will enter his home-made cookies into a nationwide contest and win. He will be offered a TV cooking show and after much thought, he will turn it down saying, “Tempting, but I love what I do.”

Joe Donahue will be invited to speak on a major national show. He will be honored with a plaque that reads, “For the man who knows more about books than anyone else in public media.”

National Public Radio will issue a rare apology to a staff member at WAMC.

The Mayor of Albany will be heard to say, “It’s about time that we acknowledge how grateful we are for WAMC carrying our city’s name around the country and world.” The WAMC CEO will respond, “You are too kind and, of course, you are welcome.” The Mayor will present a plaque.

The bus stop outside WAMC will be the scene of a drug arrest.

Someone will call the WAMC Vox Pop line and say something untoward. Ray Graf will press the red button. Jim Levulis will win a top radio award for his hosting of Midday Magazine. He will characteristically share the accolade with news director Ian Pickus.

WAMC’s chief financial officer, Jordan Yoxall, will share the WAMC “Secret-In-Charge” award with Stacey Perry Rosenberry.

Alan Chartock will present David Guistina with an inscribed golden alarm clock which will play a Pete Seeger song to walk him up every morning at 2 AM.

Murray the Dog will make a rare appearance at WAMC.

Amber Sickles, who is charge of bringing in all the membership money and the fund drives, will receive the “Hero of WAMC” award. It will come in the shape of a golden dollar sign.

There will be a concerted push from the women of WAMC to re-designate the men’s and women’s rooms by their old names. A member of the Media Project crew will take exception to that change. It will ensure great discussion.

Someone will write a book about the history of WAMC. All the proceeds will go to support WAMC.

Unexpectedly, someone will write a check to WAMC for $50,000. It will arrive in the mail.

WOQQ, WAMC’s newest acquisition, will turn out to be very popular. People driving down Route 22 from Millerton to Amenia will be very pleased and will write letters of appreciation.

A new restaurant will open in the area of WAMC. It will feature sandwiches like the ones that used to be served at the old Pie in the Sky Café next door to WAMC.

Rich Honen will receive an extraordinary and complimentary letter from a big fan.

You, dear WAMC’ers, will enjoy a happy, healthy and productive New Year.

As we enter the New Year, we look back with a great deal of appreciation and esteem. Businesses and organizations throughout our listening area and beyond were faced with some very difficult times. We couldn’t be more proud and honored that their commitment to the station remained intact, not just through hard times, but over the years in general. Their continued support is unparalleled and essential to the station. We are truly fortunate to have the opportunity to work with such wonderful establishments. Below are just a handful of some of our longtime underwriters that we’d like thank for their continued support over the years. We simply can’t say it enough – thank you! We look forward to continuing these valuable relationships and partnerships into the New Year and welcome new ones.
