

The Learning Experiences: The World That Happened

By: Ivy

When the kings and queens and people lived in England, and the kings and queens in England, the people in England had to listen to the kings and queens. But they didn't want to do that but they had to do whatever they say.

So they wanted to move to where we live now. But the kings and queens said if you do that, you still have to follow these rules of what we say. So you can go there, but you still have to follow our rules. But they didn't agree with that.

So there was a battle. And George Washington was on our side. And our country won that they got to move and didn't have to follow their rules anymore. And then George Washington got to be president.

(Story transcribed verbatim by Ivy's mother Ruth from a video she made of Ivy telling this story.

Then illustrated by Ivy and made into a pop-up book.)

Ivy G. Luke, age 6 (grade 1)

Illustrated Pop-up Book for her story:

The Learning Experiences: The World That Happened

