

Cathy Hartesvelt complaint

8/12/25 12:15 PM

Cathy claimed that she felt threatened by her supervisor (James Dyer) during the Executive meeting this morning. It occurred during the first break after the discussion on the Sheriff's Office outboard engines. She claimed that Mr. Dyer told her "If you ever do that to me again" while shaking his finger. She looked visibly shaken by the incident.

Undersheriff Kiessel was a witness to the event. Commissioner Bunek told Cathy he thought the recommendation that she made was better than the original and she told Mr. Bunek about feeling threatened after Mr. Dyer's comment.