The farthest hill

Once upon a time there lived a mother, father, and one little girl with five brothers. They lived in a cottage over the hills and lanes. The hill they lived on was a nice place. One day some new people moved onto the hill, so the family had to move to a new hill because they liked to live lonesome and by themselves. It was another pretty hill with more flowers and trees. In the hill was a circle of trees and they built there house in the middle of the trees. It was a happy house. They liked their new home the farthest hill.
First House
"New families moved in."
"The Family"
"New place"
"Moving in"