9pm Link: The Quiet Genius (WSKG)

On a foggy morning in February 1929, 25-year old Edwin Link took off from a rural airport in upstate New York. What Link would demonstrate that day would soon change the course of aviation history and lead him to a lifetime of invention and discovery. LINK: THE QUIET GENIUS is a documentary about this American original, who, despite his shy demeanor, would become one of the 20th century's greatest inventors. His story is told through the use of hundreds of personal photographs and rare archival footage, as well as a 1979 interview with the inventor. The program is an emotional tale of one of the great minds of the last century.

9pm Into The Night:

Darkness and Light

INTO THE NIGHT:

explores the many ways we think about death and, in particular, our own death. Across seven segments, the film shares the stories of fascinating men and women from various walks of life - young and old, believers and unbelievers, dying and healthy - and grappling with similar questions about mortality. Among the interviewees: a longevity scientist pushing back against death; a transhumanist who believes humans can be designed to live indefinitely; a Native American physician with stage 4 cancer who finds strength in the rituals of her Comanche grandmother; an Orthodox Jewish director of ancient texts at Harvard forced by his cancer diagnosis to reconsider his own relationship with God; a well-known photographer who realizes that love, not art, will be his legacy; and two American Buddhist monks whose mission is to be fully present to the dying.
