We would like to take this opportunity to THANK YOU for supporting SPR!

Our immense gratitude goes out to you; we are truly Listener-Member supported. Your support allows Spokane Public Radio to continue to provide the high-quality programming and events you have come to expect (Will you see you at the Record Sale or a Kid’s Concert?).

Your help ensures that we can continue to provide local journalism, comprehensive arts coverage, and of course, quality music to brighter and beyond. Please keep your eyes open and your wallet open when making your giving plans for 2024. Whether you give a one-time donation, become a Sustaining Member with an ongoing monthly gift, give a gift of stock, utilize your IRA RMD, or donate your time donation, we continue to provide the high quality programming and events of this station. Your support allows Spokane Public Radio to continue to provide insights into the movie, based on their life, came out. He continues to provide insights into the events, the stories, and the culture of the region, and the people who surround the story, and the brethren themselves, to his show.

SPPR’s community producers are on the cutting edge of musical and cultural happenings in the Inland Northwest. John Johnson highlighted the region’s hottest performers on Johnson’s Improvable History of Jazz in 2023. Spokane Public Radio is expanding its musical reach weekdays on A Little Afternoon Music. A variety of hosts bring music of all genres, including classical, pop, jazz, and more to KPBX Monday through Thursday at 2 PM.

But it’s not all about the music. Regionally beloved Movies ‘21 and new Men in Charge Briefs bring local insight to the latest in cinema and a comedic break to your routine. Poetry Moment brings regional and national poets to Spokane Public Radio every week.

Embrace Spokane Public Radio’s uniquely local community produced shows daily on KPBX 91.1 and KSFC 91.9.
