The Busing Battleground

On September 12, 1974, police were stationed outside Boston schools as Black and white students were bused for the first time between neighborhoods to comply with a federal court desegregation order. The cross-town busing met with shocking violence, much of it directed at children. The chaos and racial unrest would continue for years.

"The Busing Battleground" pulls back the curtain on the volatile effort to end school segregation, detailing the decades-long struggle for educational equity that preceded the crisis.

Mon 11th 7pm (3-1)

The Harvest

After the 1954 Supreme Court ruled that racial segregation in public schools was unconstitutional, little more than token efforts were made to desegregate Southern schools. That changed on October 29, 1969, when the high court ordered Mississippi schools to fully and immediately desegregate.

"The Harvest" follows a coalition of Black and white citizens working to create racially integrated public schools in a southern cotton town steeped in racial intolerance.

My Ascension

Twenty young people die by suicide each day in the US. At 16 years old, cheerleader Emma Benoit attempted to end her life. My Ascension is the story of the day that changed Emma's life, and everything that has happened since.

For years, Emma quietly struggled with anxiety and depression, too ashamed to share her pain with family or friends. This film is an inspiring look at her story, and includes firsthand experiences of families, friends, school officials, and suicide prevention experts. It also shares valuable resources to help keep teens safe.

UNSEEN:

How We're Failing Parent Caregivers & Why it Matters

Many parent caregivers for children or adults who are disabled or medically complex are exhausted and isolated. It's a common story: the isolation, uncertainty about the future, lack of options, and a never-ending daily to-do list means the role of caregiver overpowers nearly every other facet of life.

Unseen follows Jess and Ryan Ronne, a blended family with 8 children, including Lucas, who has profound disabilities requiring total care. The film gives an unfiltered, honest glimpse into their lives to enable a change for millions of caregivers and their families.

Out of Exile – The Photography of Fred Stein

Many people recognize the photographs of German photographer Fred Stein, yet few know his name. OUT OF EXILE is the tale of a man caught up in one of history's darkest moments. The Nazi menace thrust Fred Stein into a life of exile: in 1930s Paris; across the war-torn French countryside; and in 1940s New York. Always full of belief in the human spirit, Stein's answer was to create thousands of brilliant photographs, an art that transcends bigotry.

Silicon Valley Pain Index

Silicon Valley is known as one of the wealthiest areas of the country, but a large percentage of Silicon Valley's essential workforce and very diverse population has not shared in this prosperity.

Silicon Valley Pain Index tells the story of the challenges these workers face as seen through their efforts to find affordable housing, put food on their tables, and secure a living wage; 28% of Silicon Valley households do not earn enough money to meet the basic needs without assistance. The Silicon Valley Second Harvest Food Bank is providing food for more than a half a million people.

Haymarket: The Bomb, The Anarchists, The Labor Struggle

On May 4th, 1886, a workers' protest rally in Chicago's Haymarket Square turned deadly. An unknown assailant tossed a bomb into a throng of riot police, killing one instantly. In the chaos that erupted, seven policemen were killed, sixty injured, and civilian casualties were likely as high. The event resulted in a trial and execution of presumably innocent workers' rights activists.

Historians and professors examine the history of the bomb and the labor struggle of working people fighting for a shorter workday during the industrial might of America's Gilded Age.

Truly Texas Mexican

Truly Texas Mexican weaves through Texas cities, reclaiming Native American history. The story of Texas Mexican food begins 15,000 years ago when Native American women domesticated the plants and cooked the same game and fish we eat today.

Over time and during conquest, Texas Mexican food (not tex-mex) sustained Native American memory and identity. Cooking nopalitos, deer, mesquite and tortillas, indigenous women led the cultural resistance against colonization. It's the "comida casera," (home cooking) of today's Texas Mexican American and Native American families.
