6.1 Telling Public Radio’s Story

The purpose of this section is to give you an opportunity to tell us and your community about the activities you have engaged in to address community needs by outlining key services provided, and the local value and impact of those services. Please report on activities that occurred in Fiscal Year 2021. Responses may be shared with Congress or the public. Grantees are required to post a copy of this report (Section 6 only) to their website no later than ten (10) days after the submission of the report to CPB. CPB recommends placing the report in an "About" or similar section on your website. This section had previously been optional. Response to this section of the SAS is now mandatory.

6.1 Telling Public Radio’s Story

1. Describe your overall goals and approach to address identified community issues, needs, and interests through your station’s vital local services, such as multiplatform long and short-form content, digital and in-person engagement, education services, community information, partnership support, and other activities, and audiences you reached or new audiences you engaged.

KIOS actively seeks to identify and help address community issues, needs and interests through a broad variety of ongoing relationships with local nonprofit organizations who represent a diverse ethnic and income demographic. KIOS seeks to understand and give a public voice to those organizations that may not otherwise have the resources to promote their specific needs to the community as a whole. To this end, KIOS maintains an online community calendar of listings from qualified 501(c) organizations and others holding events to support the efforts of those nonprofits. KIOS also airs weekday morning and afternoon interviews, (both pre-recorded as well as live and in-person) with key figures from those organizations, from four to six minutes in length. In 2021, KIOS aired 149 such interviews, (down considerably from previous years and down slightly from 2020 due to the pandemic and the restrictions which did not allow for guests to enter our building. KIOS was able to piece together a system by which telephone interviews can take place, allowing us to continue our work.) These interviews fell into several categories: public health concerns, food insecurity, growing homelessness, increasing joblessness, fundraising, education and literacy, community-based services, housing, women’s issues, environmental, local renewable businesses, multiple ethnic based programs and celebrations, cultural, educational, and relevant charitable events of a timely nature, refugees empowerment, inclusive communities and events, hunger elimination programs, flood relief, healthcare, AIDS programs and prevention, domestic violence prevention and housing for victims, local government, and the arts. These organizations typically have a well-defined mission, which includes identifying and meeting the needs of a particular part of the community. KIOS is therefore informed about and responsive to those needs and assists in disseminating important information to the community. Our newscasts are reflective of our community. We actively seek out stories with organizations that deal with minority communities and have good relationships with these organizations. KIOS works with local colleges and universities to get their stories out to the public, including Bellevue University, University of Nebraska-Omaha, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Metropolitan Community College, and Creighton University, to name a few. KIOS provides an hour-long, weekly program, called Riverside Chats, interviewing some of the top newsmakers, politicians, authors, educators, from the surrounding area. Along with that, an hour-long monthly program, Weekend Forum, allows the Omaha Press Club to present similar guest speakers on KIOS. KIOS uses its air signal, the website, podcasts, e-newsletters, the events calendar, and social media to reach and keep people informed of happenings in the community and to present recordings of the live interviews mentioned above so that all people may have the opportunity to listen to the message of the diverse groups KIOS has on the air at a time that is convenient for the listener. Live or recorded, local programming is available to the KIOS audience 24 hours a day, seven days a week. And finally, KIOS staff, both as representatives of the radio station as private citizens, are active in the community donating time, talent, and money to a diverse collection of organizations for fundraising, outreach, and good old fashioned, rolled-up sleeves volunteer work.

2. Describe key initiatives and the variety of partners with whom you collaborated, including other public media outlets, community nonprofits, government agencies, educational institutions, the business community, teachers and parents, etc. This will illustrate the many ways you’re connected across the community and engaged with other important organizations in the area.

In 2021, KIOS continued to respond to community needs arising from the COVID-19 pandemic through a community support initiative that granted free on-air messaging for KIOS corporate sponsors to help support those sponsors and the community as a whole. KIOS worked with sponsors to develop messaging that included public safety and the availability of essential nonprofit services. KIOS uses its relationships with a broad variety of nonprofit organizations and KIOS’s broadcast coverage of the needs of those organizations as an informal initiative to create public awareness of those needs and public participation. For example, in 2021, KIOS aired in-depth interviews covering the following topics: - Community health and wellness issues such as free testing for a variety of health conditions including COVID-19, multiple sclerosis, Alzheimer’s, Parkinson’s, Leukemia, Cancer, AIDS, colon cancer, and innovative new technologies for the blind and partially-sighted. In addition, we regularly interviewed the head of the Douglas County Health department about updates regarding the coronavirus, mandates with respect to masks, sheltering in place, business restrictionS and closures, and other publicly important information about the pandemic and the city/state’s reaction to it; - Philanthropic issues concerning community giving and support, small business support, the need for PPE, vaccination availability and issues, the growing needs of the newly unemployed and newly food insecure, nonprofit advocacy and capacity building, volunteer service, poverty, Native American issues, food insecurity, African American community issues and solutions, Immigration Law and the local impact of Federal policies, retiree/empowerment programs. The needs of refugees, and solutions to the influx of refugees following the military withdrawal from Afghanistan, supplemental education programs for both children and adults, and community development and restoration; - Topics of concern to the community, including education, school openings/closures/ and remote learning initiatives, school food distribution for the hungry even with remote learning implemented, mentoring, teen suicide, Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals and refugees; strong neighborhoods, public and private assistance for those living at or below poverty level; Adoption of both healthy and special needs children, disease prevention, veterans issues and gratitude, women’s issues, race relations and dialogue across ethnicities and religions, inclusion and diversity. - KIOS also promoted a significant number of arts and culture events both online and on-air. In promoting the needs of community organizations, KIOS seeks to present information on-air that represents every part of the community. This includes multicultural events involving ethnically diverse groups and areas within our listening area, events geared toward the aging and youth, and events geared to pointing the community towards resources available from service organizations in the area. Through this type of reporting and presentation of interviews, KIOS has been able to impart to the community the progress as our society slowly begins to open up again. KIOS is able to keep the public informed of what resources are available and what medical and other practices are in place to help keep us safe. The station continues to program in 2021. Omaha Public Radio works cooperatively with non-profits by creating underwriting packages that assist them in their mission. Some of those non-profits include: - Omaha Community Foundation. A giving collective that connects philanthropists with the people and nonprofits who are making an impact in our city and region. - Film Streams. Enhancing the cultural environment of the Omaha-Council Bluffs metropolitan area through the presentation and discussion of film as an art form. - Food Bank for the Heartland. Providing emergency and supplemental food to people in need in Nebraska and western Iowa. Working to eliminate hunger, with respect, integrity, and urgency. - Girls Inc. Inspiring all girls to be strong, smart, and bold through direct service and advocacy. - Nebraska Children and Families Foundation. Supporting children, young adults and families at risk with the overall goal of giving Nebraska’s most vulnerable kids what they need to reach their full potential. - Nonprofit Association of the Midlands. Promoting adherence to good organizational practices through education and self-regulation. - The Guidelines and Principles provide tools for evaluating regulatory compliance. - Opera Omaha. The only professional opera company in Nebraska. It became a fully professional opera company in 1970. Opera Omaha provides quality opera entertainment through a community-wide organization and is an operatic showcase for the promising vocal talent in the region. - Omaha Symphony. Enriching people’s lives through the experience of live orchestral music with a deep commitment to education and collaboration among people and organizations committed toward sustaining the symphony’s vision. - Outlook Nebraska. Enhancing the quality of life of the blind and visually impaired by providing employment, training, and experiences that allow the blind and visually impaired to realize their personal and career goals. - There are many others as well including Barbara Weitz Community Engagement Center, Visiting Nurse Association, Omaha Community Playhouse, Nebraska Children’s Home Society, Bemis Center for Contemporary Arts, Kaneko (art center), Child Saving Institute, Community Alliance-Omaha, Children’s Respite Care Center, Durham Museum, Joslyn Art Museum, Girls, Inc., Girl Scouts Nebraska, Kids Can Community Center, Metropolitan Area Planning Agency, Nebraska Sierra Club, Omaha Metro Transit, Nebraska Wind Symphony, Nebraska Writers Collective, Nebraska Wildlife Rehab, SHARE Omaha, The Nature Conservancy, Union for Contemporary Art, Omaha Community Foundation, Cinco de Mayo-Omaha, Planned Parenthood, Omaha Summer Arts Festival, Notre Dame Housing, and The Omaha Public Library Foundation to name just a few. We have identified the need for more audience engagement in the under 40 age bracket. To meet this need we have increased our social media presence, have begun to engage more frequently with local undergraduate universities and become involved with local businesses serving a younger demographic. For example, we have hosted info tables at Creighton University and the local neighborhood farmer’s market. Additionally, we have partnered with local bakeries, coffee shops and juice bars through Instagram to get more listeners into our newly produced podcast. We also launched two new music programs targeting that age range and have a new weekly broadcast/podcast feed.

3. What impact did your key initiatives and partnerships have in your community? Describe any known measurable impact, such as increased awareness, learning or understanding about particular issues. Describe indicators of success, such as connecting people to needed resources or strengthening conversations and interactions across diverse neighborhoods. Did a partner see an increase in requests for related resources? Please include direct feedback from a partner(s) or from a person(s) served.

Since KIOS’s support of community organizations is informal, we use anecdotal information to assess the impact of our support for partnerships with community stakeholders. Feedback received from listeners and the community organizations whose activities we promote continues to be overwhelmingly positive, indicating listener awareness of and participation in community events and philanthropy directly due to our broadcast coverage. We share our news content via the web and social media. Our content is occasionally shared via Twitter and Facebook. We listen to our organization’s feedback that way. In addition, Facebook and Instagram’s programs allow organizations to contact conversation of interviewees and their organizations so that they may take action, donate, or get involved. A KIOS program host, Mike Hogan, who conducts daily interviews with nonprofit organizations to expose them to a wider audience was recognized as the Public Relations Society of America’s Nebraska Chapter as 2020 Media Partner of the year for his significant efforts to foster connection and community within the Omaha metro. Since that recognition, the requests from numerous organizations to secure an interview slot on the program he hosts have increased substantially.

4. Please describe any efforts (e.g. programming, production, engagement activities) you have made to investigate and/or meet the needs of minority and other diverse audiences (including, but not limited to, new immigrants, people for whom English is a second language and illiterate adults) during Fiscal Year 2021, and any plans you have made to meet the needs of these audiences during Fiscal Year 2022. If you regularly broadcast in a language other than English please, note the language broadcast.
KIOS also regularly interviews organizations that have the mission of helping a diverse range of ethnic groups, opening and maintaining dialogue between disparate cultures, and those groups that provide services of all types (from basic human needs of food and shelter to legal, vocational, and educational) to refugee and immigrant communities within our city and the surrounding townships. KIOS is in the process of investigating integrating additional streaming channels which includes the possibility of adding a second language channel in cooperation with the Omaha Public Schools district.

5. Please assess the impact that your CPB funding had on your ability to serve your community. What were you able to do with your grant that you wouldn’t be able to do if you didn’t receive it?

The most significant portion of our CPB funding goes towards the diverse programming that serves the needs of the community and salaries of part-time broadcasters who provide it to the listeners. Without this funding, program decisions would be based on what’s cheapest rather than what’s best for our audience needs.
