NACS issued eLearning today due to bomb threat

Fort Wayne, Ind. (Friday, April 14, 2023) –Northwest Allen County Schools has issued an eLearning day today due to a bomb threat received late last evening. A similar threat was also sent to some other school districts across Indiana.

“At this time, we have not been able to determine if the threat is credible or not. Out of an abundance of caution, all Northwest Allen County Schools will have an eLearning day today, Friday, April 14,” said Wayne Barker, superintendent, Northwest Allen County Schools.

District administrators followed NACS school safety plans and is working in conjunction with the Allen County Sheriff's Department and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security.

In a letter sent to NACS parents and staff this morning, Barker explains, “NACS officials will continue to work with law enforcement to determine the credibility of the threat and we will communicate with you as we know more.”

Students will conduct school from home today, and NACS teachers will work remotely from home. All other support staff were directed not to report to work until notified by their direct supervisor.
