The pandemic is our world. It is probable that even the latest variant is not the last we will experience during this "new normal." We are all frustrated and generally unhappy about the world and the dangers we are facing. None of us is immune. We all face stress. I am married to a woman who loves to travel -- that travel has been her life. Yet we all know that the only way we can stay safe and protect ourselves and one another is to be conservative and avoid taking unnecessary risks. The fewer opportunities we give the disease to mutate and adapt, the better off we are. We are wiser to just stay home, rather than get on a train or plane.

We at WAMC face the same challenges. The women and men of our news division show up wearing masks and we have developed a whole new way of operating over the past year and a half that greatly affects what you hear on your end of the radio. The people who work at WAMC show real courage in doing what they do so well. They get up early in the morning. They have to interact with all kinds of people. They have to interact with each other. If you were to visit our newsroom, you would understand exactly what I am talking about. To put it another way, these are true professionals. Now they wear masks over their faces. They are all vaccinated. They do what they have to do.

Like everyone else, the people of WAMC felt liberated when it appeared, at least for a little while, that we could allow people back into the WAMC headquarters. It was great! We got lots of phone calls from our audience who celebrated our live sound. As always, so many of them felt like they were in the station with us.

Then things began to get darker. There were people among our audience who refused to acknowledge that an even more transmissible disease was taking hold. We all gathered at WAMC and agreed that we had no choice but to double down on protecting ourselves. We agreed that the protections we had adopted during the earlier days of the pandemic would have to be reinstated. So, among other things, everyone in the building was expected to wear a mask and we couldn’t allow folks who were not on staff to enter the building. We talked it out and we all understand the exigencies of our situation.

The lessons we learned the first time around came in handy as we once again had to find other ways of making the magic of radio happen. I have something called a Comrex tie line. I love that device when it works, which isn’t always. It takes your voice and transports it across the phone lines to make it sound as if you are actually in the studio. The other Roundtable panelists have other ways of calling in so instead of sitting together in one room, we are being connected by a very imperfect set of phone systems. Each person’s phone is identifiable for its imperfection. We know what we are dealing with but a few of the people in radioland are not happy. Once in a while, someone writes to tell us of their dissatisfaction. Nevertheless, the majority of our wonderful audience gets it. They know what is happening and why.

We had a brief period of time when we could actually see one another and sitting face to face, it’s easier to work things out. But when we are separated by distance, if more than one person wants to speak, there can be a bit of a train wreck. That’s why the moderator has to stay sharp and call on people.

We all have to make these adjustments, sometimes on the fly, and it looks like this may be the case for a while. Of course, knowing we have the greatest, most tolerant audience in the world makes a great difference. Thank you for understanding and stay safe!
As summer trails off we begin saying goodbye to the hot weather and welcome the cool air. In September students return to school and we honor and recognize the achievements of the American labor movement. WAMC has a variety of information and entertainment to keep you informed and refreshed.

SPECIAL PROGRAMMING

Labor Day
On Monday we celebrate the holiday with music and stories from contributions of the American worker. At 9 a.m. we’ll hear live recordings from the annual Ponderosa Stomp in New Orleans on American Routes. Hear the best the in swamp pop, garage rock and surf music.

At 11 a.m. we’ll continue with Charlie Warren Work ‘n Music - A Labor Day Weekend Special. From mining to manufacturing, housework to ranching, hear the factual history and realities of American labor, wages, employment, progress, quitting, firing, and hiring, surrounded by songs about the toughness, dangers, and joys of work.

And at 2 p.m. We’ll hear back to back episodes of A New York Minute in History. In the first episode, New York state historian Devin Lander and Saratoga County historian Lauren Roberts research the life of model Audrey Munson in “Audrey Munson: America’s First Supermodel.” At 2:30 p.m. we’ll delve into the public health industry that emerged in New York in the 19th Century as the understanding of medicine and health evolved in “Drinking The Waters: The Healing Springs Movement.”

REGULAR PROGRAMMING

This month on Person Place Thing, host Randy Cohen speaks with playwright Michael R. Jackson, who won a Pulitzer Prize for “A Strange Loop”; Chicago-born Flutist and composer Allison Loggins-Hull; former official at the U.S. National Security Council specializing in Russian and European affairs, Fiona Hill; and Tony Award-winner Norbert Leo Butz, who performed in “Rent,” “Wicked,” and “Dirty Rotten Scoundrels.” “Person Place Thing” airs Fridays at 10:30 p.m.

WAMCs Performing Arts Studio The Linda features the best live and local music with the Open for Business Concert Series. On September 9 we welcome Justin Friello with special guest Richard Lovrich; September 10 will feature Only the Lonely for a Roy Orbison Tribute Show; and on September 16 powerhouse vocalist Girl Blue will return. School is in session! Back to school time for so many means supplies, books, backpacks and the list goes on. Here at WAMC back to school time reminds us of the many private/public schools, colleges and universities that support the station. We are truly grateful for their continued support, and even more thankful for their commitment to educating the communities we serve. We share a common belief that educating and informing the public are of utmost importance. Below are just some of the schools, colleges and universities that support WAMC through underwriting. Wishing you all a safe and instructive school year.

For a full listing of Underwriters please visit our Underwriting Directory.

THE WALDORF SCHOOL OF SARATOGA SPRINGS
By offering a developmentally aligned curriculum that educates the whole student, The Waldorf School of Saratoga Springs graduates global citizens with a curiosity about the world. Knowing how children learn at various phases of their development allows us to meet them where they are. https://www.waldorfsaratoga.org/

THE DARROW SCHOOL
The Darrow School is dedicated to serving students with diverse backgrounds and abilities, building on each student’s individual talents and interests to inspire enduring confidence for success in college and life. https://www.darrowschool.org/

HUDSON VALLEY COMMUNITY COLLEGE
With more than 80 degree and certificate programs, credit-free training opportunities and state-of-the art facilities, Hudson Valley Community College has been a first-choice higher education destination in the Capital Region for more than 60 years. https://www hvcc edu/index.html

ACADEMY OF THE HOLY NAMES
A distinguished international network of schools sponsored by the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, whose presence is felt throughout the world. The school offers a student-centered education for girls in grades 6-12 that is delivered with expertise and a passion for inspiring girls to become active leaders in service to others. https://www.ahns.org/

POUGHKEEPSIE DAY SCHOOL
Poughkeepsie Day School creates transformative learning experiences that inspire intellectual curiosity, critical thinking, creativity, and compassion. We believe that education is a pathway to a more just society and sustainable planet. Through discovery, analysis, and reflection, our intentional learning community brings each child to a greater understanding of self, society, and the universe. https://poughkeepsieday.org/
