Safety is always top of mind for us at Midwest Sterilization Corp—for the communities we operate in, for the healthcare providers we support, and for the team members at our plant who serve our customers.

Midwest currently is in compliance with all federal and state regulatory standards. Where possible, we work to surpass regulatory standards. For this reason, Midwest voluntarily installed a new emissions control system at its Laredo plant that eliminates more than 99.99% of primary EtO emissions, significantly better than what the Clean Air Act requires. Since 2019, we have voluntarily reduced overall EtO emissions by approximately 90% after researching, purchasing, implementing, and testing the best available emissions control technology.

Midwest expects to remain in compliance with all future regulatory standards and, wherever possible, exceed standards.
