ALL ABOUT AG presents: The Agriculture Behind Apples

There is a lot more science behind an apple than you might think.

From spring pollination and fruit thinning to grafting, harvest timing and specialized storage, apple production requires careful management long before the fruit reaches the grocery store.

Did you know that planting a seed from your favorite apple probably will not produce the same variety? That is just one of the many interesting parts of apple production.

Learn more about how apples are grown, harvested and stored on All About Ag. A special thank you to our partners, American Ag Credit, Roosevelt Soil and Water Conservation District and Border Soil and Water Conservation District, who's partnership and financial support make this feature possible.

KENW Livewire Heads to Balloon Fiesta

KENW Livewire is hitting the road this October for one of New Mexico's most iconic traditions, the Albuquerque International Balloon Fiesta. On October 3-4, 2026, the KENW crew will be at Balloon Fiesta Park capturing the color, excitement and energy of opening weekend.

Coverage will begin with the eye catching Mass Ascension, scheduled for 7:00 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday. Hundreds of hot air balloons will fill the Albuquerque sky, creating one of the most recognizable sights in New Mexico and one of the largest ballooning events in the world.

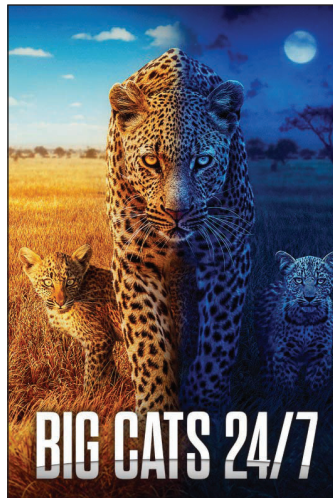

KENW Livewire will also return to the field for the evening glow events. Saturday features the Twilight Twinkle Glow at 6:30 p.m., while Sunday features the Balloon Glow at 6:30 p.m. During the glows, pilots illuminate their balloons from the ground, transforming Balloon Fiesta Park into a field of glowing color after sunset.

From the first balloons lifting into the morning sky to the glow of burners after dark, KENW Livewire will bring viewers along for an unforgettable weekend at Balloon Fiesta and showcase one of the events that makes New Mexico truly unique. Scan the QR Code to watch all live videos from KENW.

There is no clocking out when your subjects are some of Africa's most powerful predators. Big Cats 24/7 takes viewers deep into Botswana's Okavango Delta, where a team of local and international wildlife filmmakers follows lions, leopards and cheetahs through both day and night. Using modern filming technology, the series captures behaviors and moments that are rarely seen, offering an unusually close look at the lives of these remarkable animals. The result is wildlife television filled with competition, survival, family bonds and the unpredictability of life in one of Africa's great wildernesses. For nature lovers, every hour offers another chance to see the wild from a completely different perspective. Watch on KENW-TV.

MASTERPIECE

THE MARLOW MURDER CLUB: Everyone Is a Suspect

A quiet English town, three unlikely investigators and a murder that refuses to stay simple. The Marlow Murder Club follows Judith, Suzie and Becks as they find themselves pulled into dangerous investigations alongside Detective Tanika Malik. Clues must be pieced together, suspects questioned and secrets uncovered as the women use their very different strengths to get closer to the truth. The MASTERPIECE mystery combines suspense with friendship and plenty of twists, making it a fitting watch for anyone who enjoys a mystery where seemingly small details can change everything. This October, return to Marlow and see whether the club can put the pieces together before the killer stays one step ahead. Watch on KENW-TV.

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE: Explore the Outdoors

From West Texas deserts to rivers, lakes and the Gulf Coast, Texas Parks and Wildlife takes viewers outdoors to discover the wildlife, landscapes and people working to protect them. PBS describes the program as a weekly outdoors and nature series focused on the diversity of wildlife, scenic locations and fascinating characters that make Texas unique. This October, the series brings plenty to explore. Viewers will learn about efforts to restore pronghorn habitat in West Texas, travel to Hueco Tanks to see archaeologists preserve ancient pictographs, journey down the Brazos River, and head to the Texas coast to learn about oyster farming and research into the mysterious American eel. Along the way, Texas Parks and Wildlife shows that conservation is about more than protecting animals. It is also about preserving landscapes, understanding history and making sure future generations can continue to experience the outdoors. Whether you're interested in wildlife, fishing, hiking, state parks or simply discovering a new corner of the Southwest, there is always something new waiting outside. Watch on KENW-TV.

Finding Your Roots: Discovering the Stories Behind Us

forgotten stories and connections that can stretch across generations and continents. PBS describes the series as part of a larger conversation about identity and the ties that connect people from vastly different backgrounds. October brings episodes including "In Search of Freedom," "Tragedy + Time = Comedy," "Visionaries," "War Stories" and "The Pioneers." Each new family tree is also a reminder that history is not only found in textbooks, it can be found in our own families. Watch on KENW-TV.

How much of who we are can be traced through the people who came before us? In Finding Your Roots, scholar Henry Louis Gates Jr. guides guests deep into their family histories, using genealogical research to uncover ancestors,

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

Few American outlaws have become as legendary as Jesse James—but how much of that legend is actually true? American Experience: Jesse James looks beyond the familiar image of the heroic Western outlaw to uncover a much darker and more complicated story. PBS describes the popular mythology surrounding James as one of America's most familiar—and most misleading legends. Despite his reputation as a Western outlaw, James never went west, and the famous image of him as a Robin Hood figure bears little resemblance to reality. James began fighting as a Confederate guerrilla during the Civil War and continued a life of violence afterward, targeting banks, trains and stagecoaches while helping build his own public legend. Through American Experience, viewers can separate the man from the myth and explore how the Civil War, politics and a carefully cultivated reputation transformed a violent Missouri outlaw into one of the most recognizable figures of the American West. Pati Jinich Explores PanAmericana: Small Acts, Wide Ripples

Pati Jinich is back on the road, continuing a journey inspired by the Pan-American Highway and the people whose stories connect communities across the Americas. The second season of Pati Jinich Explores PanAmericana begins in Montana and Wyoming with "Small Acts, Wide Ripples." Traveling through the two states, Jinich discovers how food, culture and individual determination can help strengthen entire communities. On the Blackfoot Reservation, she explores the return of buffalo and efforts to revive a language that was nearly lost. Farther south, she meets women entrepreneurs and visits a community wool mill where local efforts are helping rebuild rural economies. It is a journey through ranching country, Indigenous lands and small communities, but the stories share a common theme: one person's actions can create an impact far beyond themselves. The episode launches a new three-part season that will eventually take Jinich through Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, exploring the food, traditions and people found along the way. WILD KRATTS: Creepy Creatures Gets Ready for Halloween

Halloween is getting a little wild on KENW! In Wild Kratts: Creepy Creatures, Chris and Martin Kratt return for a creepy, crawly Halloween adventure filled with animals that sometimes get an undeserved spooky reputation. PBS describes the special as a Halloween outing for the Kratt brothers, combining the fun of the season with the wildlife learning and creature-powered adventures families know from Wild Kratts. From creatures that crawl to animals that howl in the night, the special is a fun reminder that something can look frightening at first and still be fascinating once you learn more about it. It is also the one PBS KIDS program featured in this magazine lineup, making it a Halloween pick for younger KENW viewers and their families. Watch on KENW-TV!

DUMB IDEAS THAT CHANGED THE WORLD RETURNS FOR SEASON FOUR

Sometimes the ideas that sound the strangest are the ones that leave the biggest mark. Dumb Ideas That Changed the World returns for its fourth season on Friday, October 2 at 8:25 a.m. on KENW FM, bringing listeners another round of surprising stories, unexpected inventions and ideas that may have sounded ridiculous at first, but ended up changing the world. Hosted by Jeff Gentry, the program takes a fun and thoughtful look at the people, experiments, mistakes and unconventional thinking behind innovations that helped shape history. Each episode is a reminder that progress does not always begin with a perfect plan. Sometimes it begins with an idea that makes everyone else wonder, "Who thought that was a good idea?" Tune in for more fascinating stories, unexpected twists and a new season of ideas that were just crazy enough to work. Season Four premieres Friday, October 2 at 8:25 a.m. This program is brought to you in part by Dr. Darrell Roe, Associate Professor of Communication at Eastern New Mexico University.

KENW FM 89.5 Radio:
Wednesdays at 12:45 PM
Fridays at 8:25 AM

Dr. Greg Bobo spends his professional life helping others live healthier, more active lives. Premiering October 11th on You Should Know (YSK), viewers got to see how seriously the Portales and Clovis chiropractor applies that same philosophy to his own life.

Bobo practices with Hilliard Chiropractic, which has offices in both Portales and Clovis. An Atlanta native, he earned a biology degree from Idaho State University before receiving his Doctor of Chiropractic degree from Life University in Georgia.

Away from his practice, Bobo takes endurance to another level as an Ironman competitor. The grueling triathlon challenges athletes through swimming, cycling and running, demanding not only exceptional physical conditioning but tremendous mental determination. Bobo has competed in Ironman events in the United States and took his passion overseas last year to compete in Nice, France.

His France experience became even more remarkable when a crash involving another cyclist left Bobo with a broken collarbone. Rather than allowing the injury to define his race, he demonstrated the perseverance that has become part of his approach to both competition and life.

Cultura Earns 2026 Silver Telly Award

A series created right here in eastern New Mexico is receiving international recognition for sharing the stories, culture and history of the Land of Enchantment. Cultura, a production of KENW PBS New Mexico and Eastern New Mexico University, has received a 2026 Silver Telly Award for Best Cultural Documentary Series. The honor recognizes the work of the KENW team in bringing New Mexico stories to the screen with the depth and attention they deserve. Through powerful interviews, breathtaking imagery, food, traditions and the voices of communities across the state, Cultura celebrates the people and experiences that have helped shape New Mexico.

Episodes have explored stories such as "I Have a Dream for Clovis," which shares a remarkable New Mexico connection to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as well as "Scorched Earth" and many other stories from communities throughout the state. At the heart of the series is a simple belief: New Mexican stories matter. Cultura was created not only to showcase New Mexico's heritage, history and traditions, but also to preserve these stories for generations to come. Every interview captured and every community documented becomes part of a growing record of New Mexico history that future viewers will be able to experience.

The Silver Telly Award recognizes the collective work of the entire Cultura production team and the many people and communities who have trusted KENW with their stories. The award is an exciting milestone for Cultura and KENW PBS New Mexico, but the stories are far from finished. Cultura is just getting started. Watch on KENW-TV.
