From the Chief Executive Officer

Welcome to our fall issue! We've had a busy summer here at the station, and I'm excited to share some highlights of things coming up as we finish out the rest of the year.

To us, public media means public service. We are always looking for ways we can better serve you and our local community. We have two new ways of doing just that—and I'm eager to share them with you.

First, we are expanding our Williamsburg team. Some of you may not know that we have an office in Williamsburg. We've had a presence there for many years, but this fall we are welcoming new staff to help us better serve residents who live in the Williamsburg area. Joining us soon will be our new Community Relations Coordinator Katherine Gillespie and our new Donor Relations Officer Casey Tyler. If you live near the Williamsburg office, stop by and say hello.

I'm also excited to announce the launch of WHRO+. This free app will allow you to stream all of the TV and Passport content that you love, along with community spotlights, educational resources, and regional content you won't find anywhere else. We are in the process of scheduling community information sessions where we will demo the new app and walk you through the features. Check out whro.org/events to find a session near you. In the meantime, learn more about WHRO+ on page 8.

Speaking of excitement, if you missed the "We the People" event in Yorktown, you missed a spectacular day! We had the opportunity to screen Ken Burns's highly anticipated documentary, "The American Revolution," on the Yorktown battlefield—the very spot where some of the battles happened. Kids and families enjoyed an abundance of fun activities and vendors. And prior to the screening, we heard from producer and co-director David Schmidt, who grew up within the Historic Triangle of Jamestown, Williamsburg, and Yorktown. He spent his summers working in the living history museum in Colonial Williamsburg and on the archaeological dig at Historic Jamestown. It was great to hear his thoughts about working on the film. The entire day was wonderful. Thank you to the staff and volunteers who made it such a special event.

If you missed the event, you can still catch a preview screening. There will be screenings on October 18 at the York County Library and November 13 at WHRO Studios. The film premieres on WHRO TV 15 on November 16.

A color photograph of a ballerina in a white tutu performing a dance. She is holding two large, open, light-colored umbrellas, one in each hand, with her arms extended. DOCTOR MADBLOOD RETURNS FOR HIS 50TH HALLOWEEN SPECIAL

What began as a one-off experiment in October 1975 has become a beloved local tradition. Doctor Madblood's Movie, the campy late-night horror comedy show, quickly captured audiences in the late 1970s with its quirky host, offbeat humor, and ragtag ensemble of misfits.

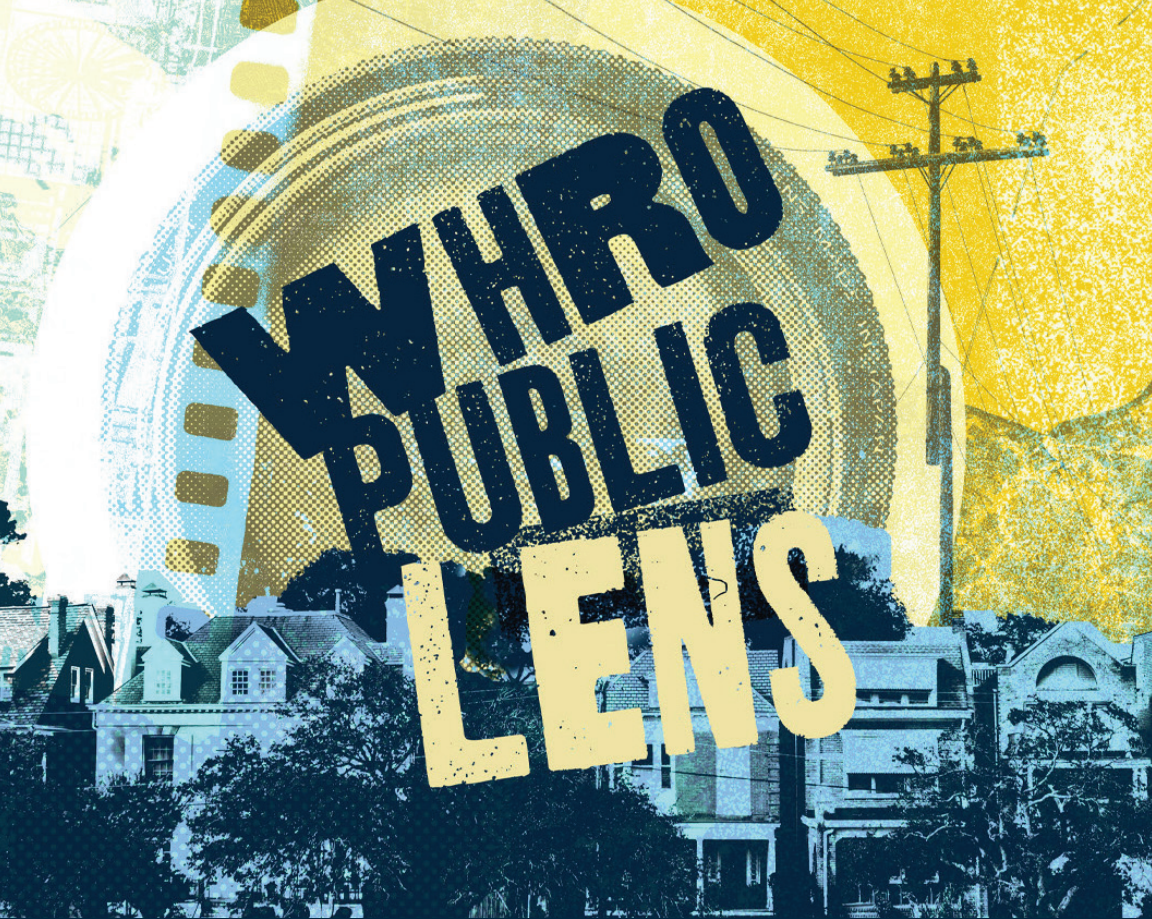

Week after week, fans tuned in to WAVY TV-10 to catch the antics of Doctor Madblood and his crew. In 1980, the show left WAVY and found new life through cable distribution throughout the early '80s. At the heart of it all has always been Jerry Harrell—the man behind the Madblood persona—who infused the show with local charm and a genuine love of storytelling.

“When we started out, we were just having a blast,” says Harrell. “It was a group of friends, cutting up and playing make-believe. It might have looked like we just turned the camera on while we were goofing off, but in truth, a lot of work went into each show. It was hard work, but always rewarding. We were lucky—we premiered just two weeks after Saturday Night Live started, so people would turn on SNL and stay for us.”

In 2008, after years of airing on various stations and outlets, Doctor Madblood returned to WHRO, where he's celebrated every Halloween since. Now, in 2025, the good doctor marks his 50th anniversary with a special that breaks tradition: instead of one of his usual “perfectly horrible movies,” he'll present the 1951 sci-fi classic The Day The Earth Stood Still.

Fan-favorite cast members—including Mike Arlo, Craig Adams, Susie Berry, Jewell Willis, and Susie Passanisi—will join in the celebration.

Don't miss this milestone event. Tune in Saturday, October 25 at 10 p.m. on WHRO TV 15 or stream it online at whro.org/madblood

'PUBLIC LENS' SEEKS STORY SUBMISSIONS

As we launch WHRO+, we are excited to announce another project we're working on—a series to feature local stories told by local storytellers.

At WHRO, we believe public media belongs to the people. That means more than national news or programs from across the country—it means telling the stories of Hampton Roads and Eastern Virginia, right here at home.

Public Lens is our new platform for local filmmakers. It's where fresh voices share the places, people, and ideas that inspire them. It's where you'll see your community on screen—maybe for the very first time.

These aren't Hollywood productions. They're neighborhood stories. They're Tidewater visions. They're your voices.

If you're a filmmaker or audio producer with a project ready for the spotlight, we'd love to hear from you! This is your opportunity to have your work featured on WHRO, reaching viewers and listeners across the region who value authentic, local storytelling.

Submit your work here:
whro.submittable.com/submit

When the films are ready to air, they will be available on WHRO+.

VINCENT J. THOMAS LEGACY SOCIETY

Many of our members feel so strongly about the future of WHRO that they've included the station in their will, trust, life insurance, retirement, or other estate plan. We're honored to include these generous members in the WHRO Public Media's Vincent J. Thomas Legacy Society.

Consider joining the community of people who want public television and radio to span generations by including WHRO in your will. For more information, call Kate Pringle at (757) 889-9370 or email kate.pringle@whro.org
