

Luke Learns a Lesson

By Avonlea C

Once upon a time there was a boy named Luke. He always played jokes on people and everybody hated it except him. He would just laugh.

Late one night when Luke was almost asleep he heard a noise. It sounded like fluttering. Then he saw it. A real life fairy! His eyes widened and the fairy began to speak and she said "My name is Tinseltips and you must be Luke." "Yes I am". Luke said firmly. "So Luke" the fairy said "I have been watching you play all those mean jokes and now you will pay!"

"I will give you three chances to stop but if you do not stop you will never be able to speak again," warned Tinseltips. Well that scared the living daylights out of Luke! Then with a flash the fairy was gone. The next day Luke put worms in his classmate Lily's lunchbag. That night the fairy came and said "Two more chances." The next day Luke put a whoopee cushion on David's chair. That night Tinseltips said "One more chance."

On the third day this older girl named Ella saw Luke playing jokes on kids. "Time to give him a taste of his own medicine," she said. When Luke came home from school that day he shivered because he saw it. His worst nightmare. A rat on his porch! "Ah!" he said loudly. Then Ella came out from behind the bushes. "Maybe you should stop playing jokes on kids," she said mischievously. Luke was shocked. "Okay" he mumbled. "She looks familiar but I just can't put my finger on it," thought Luke as Ella walked away.

Later that night when every one was asleep Ella crept over to her closet and shoved in a fairy costume. "Hopefully I won't be needing this again anytime soon." She grinned.
