PROGRAM NOTES

WAMC

It's February, and the groundhog has seen his shadow. While that means 6 more weeks of winter for us, you can still count on WAMC to keep you entertained and informed as winter continues on. Here's what's coming up this month!

SPECIAL PROGRAMMING

In honor of Black History Month, tune in on Monday, February 9th at 11am for the Witness History: Black History Month a special hour-long edition of Witness History from the BBC World Service, bringing together some in-credible interviews looking at the African-American experience. Told by people who were there, we hear stories that are fascinating, harrowing, and inspiring.

Black History Month at WAMC continues on Thursday, February 26th at 11 am for an hour long special from Rhapsody in Black as we turn up the voices of Black artists in the world of classical music, with host Vernon Neal.

For President's Day join us for a full day of special programs at WAMC, starting at 9am with The Poetry Café - Live From Greensboro giving yourself a moment to feed your mind, your body, and your soul as you immerse yourself in this open mic night over the airwaves.

At 10am with Collaborative for the Earth, the debate over advancing nuclear technology in the United States is promising safe, reliable, and carbon-free energy to power data centers, cryptocurrency, and AI demands. The Collaborative for the Earth explores how the political, social and economic optics have shifted toward nuclear as one possible off ramp to an impending energy crisis in the U.S.

At 11am listen to BirdNote Presents: Words in Flight, where we discover how birds have long been a popular subject for writers. They are featured over and over in songs and books. Shakespeare frequently mentioned birds in his plays, whether for symbolism or dramatic effect. And there are more poems about birds than we can count. Words in Flight is an hour-long radio special, featuring selections from episodes of BirdNote Daily and Bring Birds Back that highlight contemporary poetry. You'll hear poets, in their own words, sharing what birds mean to them, and what they teach us about ourselves and our world.

At 2pm, Marketplace and This Old House Radio Hour are collaborating on Building Tomorrow, a one-hour national radio special that explores how American homes are being reimagined for the next century. Co-hosted by Marketplace's David Brancaccio and This Old House Radio Hour's Jenn Largesse, Building Tomorrow blends personal narrative, design reporting, and economic insight into a sweeping look at what the next hundred years of American housing might hold. Throughout the hour, listeners will meet the architects, builders, and homeowners redefining the American dream from the ground up. Each act of construction becomes an act of imagination—proof that resilience begins not with what we can build, but with what we can envision.

Finally, at 3:30pm we kick off America's birthday year with a New York Minute in History as we listen to the harrowing story of the capture of British spymaster Major John André, who was caught attempting to bring vital information on the American garrison at West Point to the British army command. The documents hidden in André's boot made it clear that American General Benedict Arnold was involved in the conspiracy and a traitor to the cause.

Interviewees: Brian Keough, New York State Archivist and Aaron Noble, guest host and Senior Historian and Curator of Political and Military History at the New York State Museum.

The Met Opera

This February the Met Opera continues on, presenting performances of Mozart's Idomeneo, Puccini's Manon Lescaut, and Berlioz's La prise de Troie. The Met Opera airs Saturdays at 1 p.m. through May 30. For a full schedule, please visit the Met Opera website.

REGULAR PROGRAMMING

February, on The Academic Minute, will see us welcome a takeover week from Flagler College! Professors from this institution will examine acidification in a northeast Florida estuary, whether your alibi will be believed and how we can do more with less in sport management programs. Later in the month, Pablo Moyano from Washington University in St. Louis will determine if concrete is the future for affordable housing. Rin Yoon from the University of Iowa will show you to your room and explain how businesses can stand out in the crowded hotel market. In the final week of the month, Shannon Kay from Yale University will discuss differences in asthma between the sexes. Tune in each weekday at 7:30 a.m. & 3:56 p.m. on WAMC or anytime online on The Academic Minute's Substack.

Person Place Thing will bring you conversations with Andrew Kimball, head of New York City's Economic Development Corporation, overseeing massive projects; Ali Velshi of MS NOW talks about reasons for being a journalist; LaFrai Sci, leader of Willie Mae Rock Camp, who describes a device she uses to teach girls about blues and STEM; and playwright Richard Nelson, who talks about directing When the Hurlyburly's Done in Kyiv.

This month on Earth Wise, the global economy relies heavily on nature, with more than half of global GDP dependent on the environment. But deforestation, pollution, biodiversity loss, and climate change are steadily eroding the ecosystems that make economic activity possible. Natural capital accounting is putting numbers to these losses. At the same time, new technologies are creating more environmental challenges. Artificial intelligence now consumes more than 4% of U.S. electricity, a figure set to more than double by 2040. Researchers are working on solutions, including a new chip design that could cut AI energy use by up to 1,000 times. Earth Wise airs weekdays at 11:10 a.m. and 4:04 p.m.

Don't miss this month's award-winning podcast a NYMIH!

We kick off America's birthday year with the harrowing story of the capture of British spymaster Major John André, who was caught attempting to bring vital information on the American garrison at West Point to the British army command. NEW YORKER RADIO HOUR

Saturdays, 10-11 a.m.

The New Yorker Radio Hour is a weekly program presented by the magazine's editor, David Remnick, and produced by WNYC Studios and The New Yorker. Each episode features a diverse mix of interviews, profiles, storytelling, and an occasional burst of humor inspired by the magazine, and shaped by its writers, artists, and editors. This isn't a radio version of a magazine, but something all its own, reflecting the rich possibilities of audio storytelling and conversation.

OPEN TO DEBATE

Thursdays, 9-10 p.m.

America is more divided than ever — but it doesn't have to be. Open to Debate offers an antidote to the chaos. We bring multiple perspectives together for real debates. Debates that are structured, respectful, clever, provocative, and driven by the facts. Open to Debate is on a mission to restore balance to the public square through expert moderation, good-faith arguments, and reasoned analysis. We examine the issues of the day with the world's most influential thinkers spanning science, technology, politics, culture, and global affairs. It's time to build a stronger, more united democracy with the civil exchange of ideas. Be open-minded. Be curious. Be ready to listen. Join us in being Open to Debate.

SELECTED SHORTS

Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m.

Sundays, 11 a.m.-12 p.m.

Over thirty-five years ago, Selected Shorts was born on the stage at Symphony Space and quickly became one of the best known shows of its kind. The series was conceived with a simple premise: take great stories by well-known and emerging writers and have them brought to life by terrific actors of stage and screen. The radio show is recorded live from performances at the Peter Sharp Theater at Symphony Space in New York, as well as around the US on tours.

THIS AMERICAN LIFE

Fridays, 8-9 p.m.

Saturdays, 4-5 p.m.

This American Life is a weekly public radio program and podcast. Each week we choose a theme and put together different kinds of stories on that theme. Mostly we do journalism, but an entertaining kind of journalism that's built around plot. In other words, stories! Our favorite sorts of stories have compelling people at the center of them, funny moments, big feelings, surprising plot twists, and interesting ideas. Like little movies for radio. TAL is an Peabody Award and Pulitzer prize-winning show hosted by Ira Glass and produced in collaboration with WBEZ Chicago.

UNDERWRITING SUPPORT COMES FROM

WAMC

What is underwriting, you might ask? As a public radio station, we don't carry conventional advertisements. Instead, we offer sponsorship opportunities in the form of underwriting. Underwriting consists of brief radio announcements, or "credits," that inform our listeners about what products, services, or events a business or organization offers. The objective, unbiased approach of underwriting strips away the clutter and loaded language of other advertising. We are extremely grateful to work with hundreds of businesses throughout our listening area. These organizations opt to use their marketing and advertising dollars to share their message with our listeners, all while supporting the station at the same time. We truly appreciate their support and ask you to take a moment to support them! View our Underwriting Directory highlighting all of our underwriters from various industries.

Interested in becoming an underwriter?

It's quick and simple! Visit wamcunderwriting.org/contact-us to get the ball rolling and we'll take it from there.
