Dear Public Radio 90 Members,

Thank you for your continued support of WNMU, Public Radio 90.

We're heading into the home stretch of our 2026 fiscal year here at Public Radio 90, which ends June 30th. Our last on-air fundraising campaign for this year is set to begin May 5th and go through May 14th. We hope that you will encourage all of your friends and family to support Public Radio 90 with a financial gift. Every single gift is very meaningful as we navigate through our first few years without federal funding support.

Our General Manager, Patrick Lakenen, continues to work with partners both nationwide and locally in pursuing additional funding sources and cost saving measures that we may be able to implement. We also continue to lobby our representatives about the importance of a strong public media service for the American people and the communities we serve. We are very thankful for many of our programming partners, as most are continuing to give us some relief on programming costs for the coming fiscal year, but those costs remain significant, which is why you are so critical to the operations of Public Radio 90.

Have you been wanting to travel to Ireland? Well, your time has come! Nicole Walton will be hosting our next Collette/Holiday Travel Tour: Shades of Ireland, April 10th through 19th, 2027. We are holding an informational meeting, at the Public Radio 90 studios in Harden Hall, on May 20th at 4 pm. If you are interested in attending the meeting, please RSVP at 906-227-9668.

Keep listening for more details about our upcoming Strega Nonna fundraising event featuring folk artist Loudon Wainwright, III. This event will be in July and we are actively making plans right now and will announce ticket details soon.

Again, we are very thankful for each one of you. Your financial support is very important to us, but your kind words of support mean everything to us! Please continue to reach out to your circle of friends and encourage them to learn more about WNMU Public Media and become sustaining members.

Enjoy the changing season (especially the sunshine!).

Over the past decade, police in America have shot and killed 1,939 people who were in the middle of a mental health crisis. That's 20% of all police killings in that time. Those deaths helped fuel a movement. Instead of armed police, more than half of the country's largest cities now send specially trained social workers and EMTs. Examine new approaches to mental health crisis response.

Chapter-A-Day on WNMU-FM

Monday, May 4 through Tuesday, May 19, Susan Sweeney reads Fox & I: An Uncommon Friendship by Catherine Raven. When Catherine Raven finished her PhD in biology, she built a tiny cottage on an isolated plot of land in Montana. She was as emotionally isolated as she was physically. Then one day she realized that a mangy-looking fox was showing up on her property every afternoon at 4:15 p.m. Her scientific training had taught her not to anthropomorphize animals, yet as she grew to know him, his personality revealed itself and they became friends. A remarkable tale of friendship, growth, and coping with loss.

Wednesday, May 20 through Friday, June 5, Norman Gilliland reads When The Cranes Fly South by Lisa Ridzén. Bo is running out of time. Yet time is one of the few things he's got left. These days, his quiet existence is broken up only by daily visits from his home care team. Fortunately, he still has his beloved elkhound Sixten to keep him company ... though now his son, with whom Bo has had a rocky relationship, insists upon taking the dog away, claiming that Bo has grown too old to properly care for him. The threat of losing Sixten stirs up a whirlwind of emotion, leading Bo to take stock of his life, his relationships, and the imperfect way he's expressed his love over the years.
