Shark Rodeo by Marshall Boone

Once upon a time, Marshall and Everett were fishing on a boat in the ocean. Suddenly, something grabbed Marshall off the boat. Everett cast his line out to try to catch him. He got a tug on his line that was so strong it broke the fishing line. So, he dove into the water to try to save Marshall. At that time, he saw him emerge from the water and ski on his feet! A shark had a hold on his fishing line and was swimming away from their boat. Suddenly, their boat started moving forward toward the shark and Marshall. He had forgotten to turn off the boat! As it was zooming, it suddenly stopped, out of gas. The boat blocked Marshall and he flew up onto the deck. Marshall filled the boat with more gas and drove over quickly to Everett. Everett was struggling to stay afloat because he had forgotten to wear his swimmies. As he was climbing onto the boat, the shark returned and jumped out of the water over the boat. Marshall pulled out his rope and lassoed the shark onto the boat deck. They drove home happy to have shark stew for dinner.
Picture 1  Marshall and Everett were fishing on a boat in the ocean.
He saw him emerge from the water and ski on his feet!
Picture 3 Everett was struggling to stay afloat because he had forgotten to wear his swimmies.
Picture 4 Marshall pulled out his rope and lassoed the shark onto the boat deck.
Picture 5 They drove home happy to have shark stew for dinner.