Archie McDonald Speaker Series: Alan Bean

Airs Monday, April 2 at 8:00 p.m.

Apollo 12 astronaut Alan Bean, the fourth man to walk on the moon and an award-winning artist, was the featured guest at the 2011 Archie McDonald Speaker Series at Stephen F. Austin State University. "Alan Bean is a member of a most exclusive group – one of 12 people who have walked on the moon and captured the focus and imagination of the nation and the world during the apex of manned space exploration," Dr. Archie McDonald said. "Our speaker series is delighted to feature a fellow Texan who has viewed our world from a perspective few others have experienced."

The Archie McDonald Speaker Series is designed to honor and preserve the legacy of a distinguished scholar, educator, and community commentator who brings American culture to the average person. The speaker series will host a prominent national figure annually at SFA to discuss contemporary cultural issues—from politics to art—in the tradition of the writings and oral presentations of Dr. McDonald. In the process, the profile of SFA will be enhanced at the national level while the regional community will be enriched at the same time.

Why This Night with Rabbi Ismar Schorsch

Airs Monday, April 9 at 8:00 p.m.

This special is a new production in a series of a conversation about Passover, one of the most important and most beloved holidays on the Jewish calendar. Larry Josephson, a secular Jew who now wants to know more about the religion of his grandparents, asks Rabbi Ismar Schorsch, Chancellor of the Jewish Theological Seminary, to explain the meaning of Passover in a post-9/11 world. Dr. Schorsch tells Larry the story of Passover -- its history, rituals and foods, and the origins and structure of the Seder. The music of Passover, sung by some of the best cantors and choirs in the world, is artfully woven in and out of the conversation. The music was chosen by Cantor Marcia Tilchin, the Associate Producer. The program was developed and produced by Larry Josephson, and edited and mixed by Peter Zanger.

Bullied: Teen Stories

Airs Monday, April 16 at 8:00 p.m.

Bullying isn't a new story, but lately, it is all over the news. And while young people are often the targets and the actors in bullying, we rarely get to hear their perspectives in the media. Bullied: Teen Stories is changing that. This hour-long special produced in collaboration with WNPR includes stories from teens with first-hand insight on bullying. From being called "Osama" in a Boston classroom, to looking at whether bullying prevention programs really work in Anchorage, youth producers from around the globe help show us what we don't understand – but need to – about bullying. Join teen hosts Council Brandon and Peyton Echelson-Russell for an hour of thought-provoking stories, interviews and teen perspectives on bullying. Bullied includes contributions from Blunt Youth Radio Project, ZUMIX Radio, Alaska Teen Media Institute, Hear in the City, Middletown Youth Radio Project and LatitudeNews.com. It is supported by a grant from the Motorola Mobility Foundation. The show was produced by WNPR, Connecticut Public Radio and presented by PRX, the Public Radio Exchange.

BURN: An Energy Journal

Particles: Nuclear Power After Fukushima

Airs Monday, April 23 at 8:00 p.m.

A one-year anniversary special for broadcast March 11, 2012, examining the future of nuclear power after the disaster at the Fukushima Daiichi plant in Japan. Among many stories, Alex Chadwick conducts an interview with a deputy director of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission about behind-the-scenes goings-on during the early hours and days post-Fukushima — and next steps for nuclear plants in the United States. And Chadwick will profile Greg Hardy, a Los Angeles-based engineer who has spent much of his career examining the vulnerability of nuclear plants to earthquakes. The show also travels to Japan, where post-Fukushima, Japanese mothers' concerns about radiation-contaminated food have turned them into activists. And in Germany, where the government plans to shut down its nuclear reactors by 2022, BURN will visit the site of a controversial radioactive waste disposal facility. Finally, Alex Chadwick conducts a first-time-ever interview with an American technical worker, on site at the Daiichi nuclear plant when the earthquake and tsunami struck. Throughout the show, Alex will provide a clear explanation of how nuclear energy works, why this is such a difficult technology to develop and manage, and what new nuclear tech is on the horizon.

Hunting for Oil: Risks and Rewards

Airs Monday, April 30 at 8:00 p.m.

An Earth Day special that coincides with the two-year anniversary of the April 20 Deepwater Horizon oil spill, the worst in U.S. History. What became of all that oil? And what's the future of offshore drilling? Segments will include a profile of the work of social scientist Dr. Steven Picou from the University of South Alabama who has been listening to the human stories of those hardest hit in the aftermath of the Deepwater Horizon oil spill: fisherman and charter boat captains and business owners. Picou first developed what he calls "peer listening training" after the Exxon Valdez oil spill in Alaska, only to see a similar fate befall his own Gulf Coast home. Alex Chadwick will also interview two esteemed scientists, a marine ecologist and a chemist (both MacArthur fellows) with very different viewpoints about the safety of the water and the seafood in the Gulf of Mexico two years after.

America Abroad: The Global Water Challenge

Airs Sunday, June 24 at 7:00 p.m.

The world's population is growing, and with it, so is the demand for water. On this month's program, America Abroad examines global issues related to water, from dams on the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, to droughts and floods in Queensland, Australia. We'll also discuss solutions—from water-related I.T. in the developing world to solar-powered purification after the Haiti earthquake.

Joseph Braude talks with Yemen's former minister of water and the environment. Perhaps the most dire water crisis in the Arab world is in the Republic of Yemen, one of the poorest nations in the region.

Linda Gradstein reports from the banks of the Jordan River. Today the Jordan River is shallow, narrow and polluted. Despite collaborative efforts between Israel and Jordan, progress is often stifled by regional politics.

Constanze Letsch reports from Istanbul and the building of the Ilisu Dam in southeastern Turkey. The dam is intended to meet the country's growing electricity needs. But this controversial project risks washing away thousands of years of history.

Michael Rhee reports from Brisbane Australia. Over the past ten years, Australia has seen some of the worst droughts and floods in its recorded history. These unpredictable conditions have forced citizens to adapt in a variety of ways.

James Luce reports from Rahway, New Jersey. In the aftermath of the earthquake in Haiti in 2010, access to clean water was nearly impossible. A New Jersey mayor responded to this emergency with a sophisticated act of generosity.

Host Ray Suarez discusses the water challenges facing our planet – from scarcity to sanitation – with Winston Yu, World Bank scholar and professor at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.
