A Boy and a Fairy

By: Bilal Qayyum
There was a boy called Jim. People thought he was nice, but he never shared. Anytime a friend or his little brother ask for a toy from him, he would say, “NO”. His mom and dad told him sharing was good, but he would yell, “NO”.
Then one day a fairy came when Jim was playing with his friends. She hugged all the children and gave them presents. When the fairy got to Jim, she said, “Oh no, you have zero points.” Jim started crying. Fairy said, “If you start sharing you will get a present as well”.
Jim was crying!
Jim learnt his lesson and promised he would share. He finally got a present.
Sharing is very good, and we should all share.
